MEQUON, Wis – January 20, 2009 – Design House, a leading manufacturer of home décor products, introduces four new collections of fully assembled vanities. The four collections are designed to meet the different décor styles and preferences of today's consumer. "These collections provide excellent value. They are showroom quality cabinetry at home center pricing," said Jon Gallun, Vice President of Marketing and Product Development for Design House.

Montclair is an elegant and traditional collection featuring a deep Chestnut glaze finish that highlights the fine details of this cabinetry. The Ventura collection, in contrast, has a clean, chic design which includes flush mounted doors and drawers in a dark espresso finish. The Belmont collection with a Maple finish is a transitional style that works well in any décor, and the Hudson collection in Nutmeg Oak meets the continual demand for traditional oak cabinetry. The finish used on all four collections is a durable, water resistant finish that will look great for years to come.

Special features that set these collections apart include full extension ball bearing drawer glides, concealed, adjustable hinges, solid wood doors and drawers and being fully assembled in the United States. Each collection features TruMatch™ hardware with finish specifications that match products from all Design House categories. “TruMatch is important to our customers because they know when they buy Design House that their cabinet hardware will match their Design House faucet, bath accessories and lighting,” said Gallun. “No more running from store to store with product samples trying to find something that is ‘close enough’!” The new, fully assembled vanities also coordinate beautifully with Design House’s recently launched granite vanity top program. The program features four granite finishes in five sizes each, complete with ceramic undermount sink, matching backsplash and pre-drilled faucet holes. Builders will find that combining the new vanities, granite tops and other Design House bath products is a simple way to create a stylish and unforgettable bathroom setting.
